2001 Metamorphosis 2002

The origins of change...

Metamorphosis - a change of physical form, structure, or substance; a striking alteration in appearance, character, or circumstances; a marked and more or less abrupt developmental change in the form or structure of an animal. This year marked one of the most dynamic changes for Eckerd College. With the start of the new year, came a new college president, Dr. Donald R. Eastman III, as well as nearly 400 new faces, the class of 2005. In September, we, along with the rest of the nation, faced a horrific reality of the terrorist attacks around America. These

"My name is Don Eastman, and I am a freshman too. I am a freshman president: I have been on the campus here at Eckerd for almost three weeks, so I share a bit of your excitement, a bit of your state of disorientation, and a bit of your uneasy feeling that maybe you brought too much stuff to fit into your attacks forced us to realize and accept the changes that were going on throughout the country. In October, after three years of students' hard work, we experienced the grand opening of the newly renovated student center, Triton's Pub. The Pub's new welcoming atmosphere and accelerated technology made students want to go hang out there instead of just pass through. We also said goodbye to our Dean of Students, Thomas Miller, and welcomed James Annarelli as our new Dean of Students. Along with Dean Annarelli came a whole new student affairs staff, who began to change Eckerd into the place everyone knew it could be. In May, we watched fellow students graduate, changed for the better from their time at Eckerd, ready to face what the world is to put before them. We know this year has changed us, has it changed you?

room...As freshmen, you now begin a new season of your lives. You enter the climate of the educated world, and you do so not simply to learn, but to construct a meaningful life, to prepare yourselves for the service your talents make possible, for the service and leadership your country and your planet so badly need. That new season, and the challenges it brings, begin tonight. Welcome to Eckerd College." --President Eastman's address to the Class of 2005 at the Ceremony of Lights on August 10, 2001.

Autumn Term

Autumn Term began at registration. New students came with their families, or by themselves, to begin their college career. Freshmen were the only occupants of the campus for the first three weeks, taking just one class. The purpose of this orientation period was to introduce the new students to the reality of college life. In addition, activities and lectures were scheduled each day to teach students what was out there and give them something to look forward to for the next four years of their lives.

Laid out "I love being five miles from the beach. I can go anytime!" said Michelle Davis, with friends.

Cheese During registration, a family has the chance to create a button to remember the day.

Room For More Katie Murray sits in her dorm room in Gershwin house. Students quickly decorate their rooms with pictures, posters, and other touches of home. A common accessory is Yaffa blocks, for storage space. Students also loft their beds for more space.

Listen Hard New students and their families sit outside Fox Hall listening to a brief introduction about registration and all it entails. This was recommended for everyone, as it explained all the important paperwork.

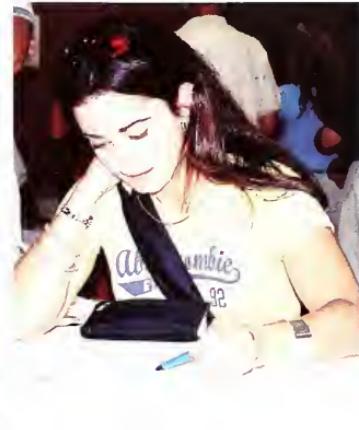

Line Up Freshmen and their parents stand in line waiting for their turn to register.

Pen in Hand A new student fills out forms in Fox Hall during registration. Freshmen had to go through many stations before they were officially ready for college. Among the stations were financial aid, work study, campus safety, and housing. After registration, parents and students began moving into the dorms. Later that day, the first meeting of the Autumn Term class was held.

Markings Brittney Boone and Jill Kessler, members of ECOS, supervise the banner-signing table. Written on the banner was "Welcome Class of 2005," and all freshmen were to sign their names. After registration it was posted outside the ECOS office in Brown Hall for all to see.

In the Beginning . . .

DR. SUESS Ruthie Reid works as an Activator during Autumn Term. Activators pump up the freshmen and make sure they attend all the planned activities. They are also available to help with any questions or problems that might arise.

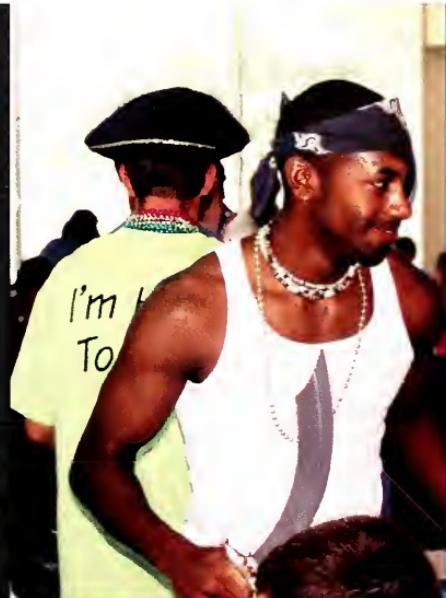

Hosed down Two students hose themselves down after swimming in Frenchman's Creek by the Waterfront. During Autumn Term, the Waterfront held a day for water activities; students could take their swim test, go out on the boats, or kayak.

FUN IN THE SUN Nathan Lindley takes students and parents for a ride in one of the Waterfront boats during the Waterfront Open House. Many students take advantage of all the Waterfront program offers: free use of canoes, kayaks, sailboats, and more.

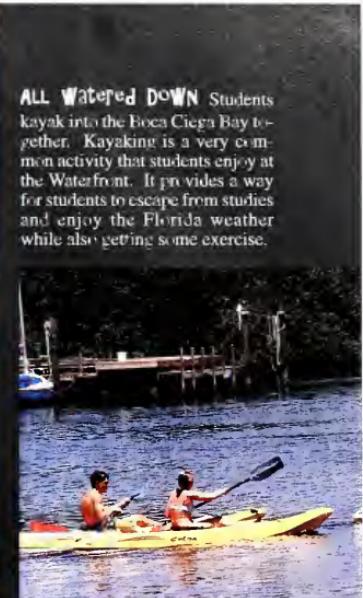

Sweatin' Away Emily Ayers and Missy Norwick shovel the soil at Palmetto Park Community Garden. This was one of the community destinations of "Into the Streets," a service day provided by Service Ministries.

AMOY Will Seuffert and Elisa deJong, members of the EC-SAR team, and Activators Nick Byrd and Gracson Morris invade the caf to take "prisoners" to the Waterfront Open House. This was an event to show the students what the Waterfront has to offer.

ALL Watered Down Students kayak into the Boca Ciega Bay together. Kayaking is a very common activity that students enjoy at the Waterfront. It provides a way for students to escape from studies and enjoy the Florida weather while also getting some exercise.

Captain Hook Nick Byrd takes on the role of a pirate in order to bring people to the Waterfront Open House.

Paint Fight Lauren Cunningham and Allison Teskovich volunteer at the Palladium Theater in downtown St. Petersburg. Along with several other students, they painted a conference room that was to be used later that afternoon. They finished painting in 3 hours!

American Unbreakable

On the morning of Tuesday, September 11th, 2001, two planes were hijacked and flown into the twin towers of the World Trade Center. A little while later, another plane was flown into the Pentagon, and yet another crashed in Pennsylvania. These events shook, not only the United States, but the world. The twin towers collapsed not long following the attacks. As symbol of New York City and, therefore America, the twin towers vanished within hours; leaving only pillars of smoke in their shadows. In the skyline there became a void; the streets and buildings covered in dust and rubble. That same day suspects were announced, the most probable being Osama Bin Laden, who is the most dangerous terrorist in the world. The events of that day had resonating effects and will always be with every citizen.

"I was reading The Odyssey for Western Heritage. I really didn't know what to think, it didn't hit me that people were dying."

~Ronald Porter

"I heard about it, but didn't think much of it until I went to class and we discussed it and then it just seemed to hit me."

~Michelle Chezem

"My friend told me, but I didn't believe her. So, I went to my lab and heard more and I began to believe."

~Jill Lavery

"I have friends who live there. As soon as I heard I called them as quickly as possible."

~Matt Skomasa

"I first thought it was all an accident. When I heard about all three buildings I realized that it couldn't be."

~Brad Fountain

"My first reaction was 'Oh, my God.' I was in shock. I wondered what would happen to the world if it didn't end there?"

~Sulekha Tummala

What did you think when you heard about the attack?

SEPTEMBER

LUCKY WINNER
T heresia Buchholz hands over a prize to the lucky winner, Cavinlyn Keown. Palmetto and ECOS gathered over $500 worth of prizes to be raffled off during the party.

STREETCH
Ronald Porter and Kate Knepper race each other on the inflatables that Palmetto brought to the Welcome Back Party. The party was sponsored by ECOS and Palmetto!

KNOCKED OUT
Lyndsie Nickel is armed and ready to fight back! This fun inflatable allowed the students to feel like pro boxers!

ALMOST THERE
Running against the pull of a bungee cord, Melanie Brady tries to place her bean bag the furthest on the "ruler" to win!

LOOK AT HER GO Kim Mortimer and Mike Myers boogie with Maria Kute. All types of music was played so everyone could enjoy the party!

FOLLOW THE BEAT Garrette James and Chanel Martin get their groove on! The DJ for the night was Alex Frates.

A very busy month, September was the start of the official fall semester. All sophomores, juniors, and seniors joined the freshmen on campus after Labor Day. Registration was in order for the upperclassmen on their first day back. Classes started right away and gave students more than enough to do besides the numerous activities put on by the clubs and other organizations on campus. Among the parties, the study sessions, and the work to be done, students began the new semester with high hopes.

WAS THE WELCOME BACK PARTY A GOOD WAY TO START OUT THE YEAR?

"Great way to start off the year, definitely a lot of energy."

"Yeah, it was fun. Something different. It wasn't a dance...it was a big social festivity."

-Justin Rivers

College Program Series Events

Welcoming students back... The choir leads those gathered at opening convocation in song along with Mona Bagasao, Angela Guyadeen, Dean Chapin, and President Eastman. Opening Convocation is one of the first CPS events of every year.

Speaking to a full house... Students gather in Dendy McNair Auditorium for another CPS event. Nearly all of them are held in Dendy. The CPS events can range in subject from science to politics to 60s Rock n' Roll. There's surely something for everyone.

Giving a little insight... Guest Speaker Shibley Telhami, an authority on the Middle East, speaks to students about the current situation. Several CPS lectures focused on international relations with the Middle East in the aftermath of 9/11.

Fun In The Sun

It's 80 degrees outside?! And it's September?!

Many students find themselves realizing just how warm it is as September rolls around and schoolwork starts to pick up. Most of Eckerd's students come from northern states where September means the start of cold weather. But in Florida, it's just another month of beautiful sunshine. Students spend the warm, lingering summer days at the beach relaxing, sun bathing, and perhaps even doing some homework. It's also an ideal time to walk along the seawall at sunset and enjoy a few games of frisbee or a barbecue out in Kappa Field. However the time is spent, it's nice to realize that when the rest of the U.S. is gearing up for winter, we'll be in shorts well into November.

Clockwise, starting at the top left

SIGN ME UP Ronald Porter chats about Earth Society with Katie Tripp and Mark Mueller. The club fair makes it easy for students to join the clubs and organizations that Eckerd has to offer.

BALLOONS Skip the Clown creates balloon animals for the students!

WHAT DOES IT INVOLVE? Colleen Carroll asks Lindsey Kraatz, Maria Kute, and Jen Asher what Palmetto is all about.

GOOFIS Abby Berenbak and Tiffany Pasco take time out from the club hunt to have a little bit of fun!

WHEN IS THE FIRST MEETING? Katherine Murray and Lynn Jacobsen talk to Anthropology Club members.

GOT A BOAT?

Ruth Athanson ventures her truck into the flooded road, despite seeing the stalled car stuck in the middle.

SLIDE

Brad Kaschner does the penguin slide on a skim board right outside of Prasch House. Many students took advantage of "Lake Eckerd" to have a little bit of fun in the water on the day off!

TROPICAL STORM Gabrielle

WATER TROUBLE...

Hurricane Dalton

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE Ankle deep in water, the residents of Room 26 hurry to escape with all their belongings.

BAILING OUT Dalton's Resident Advisor, Lindsey Kraatz, helps to sweep out the water that now fills the hallway.

In Your Dreams

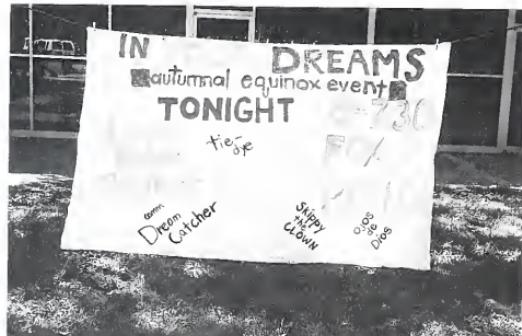

I love my balloon hat!

Jeanne Hunter, the Campus Ministries Intern, poses for a picture while enjoying the evening that Campus Ministries planned for the Eckerd community. Skip the Clown was hard at work making balloon hats for everyone who wanted one!

Can't miss this sign!

A large fabric banner promoting "In Your Dreams" hangs near the bookstore and mailboxes where it will be seen by all students.

What's "in" your mind?

Julie Legg stands next to the dream board. All Eckerd students who attended the event were asked to take part in making this collective dream log that was later turned into a large dream catcher and displayed in the chapel for all to see!

Anyone up for a hot dog? Hamburger?

Dan Niebler slaves away at the grill making food. His efforts did not go unappreciated as hungry students quickly ate up the fare. Free food is always a bonus and students always love it!

Enjoying the evening with friends... Rene Arauz, Julie Turt, Jessica Kulick, and Tom Hagood sit together enjoying the evening as the event draws to a close. Students spent time with their groups of friends and had a great time enjoying each others' company.

Sweet Dreams!

Lester Chang Fong and Mona Bagasao work on the collective dream catcher in hopes of warding off nightmares, especially those about exams, papers, and projects. Many students added a link to the dream catcher, making it a true community project.

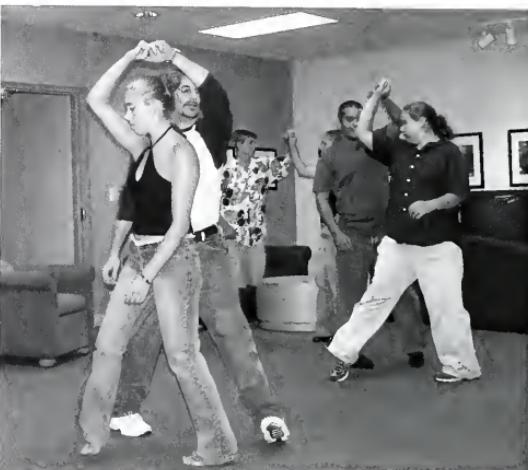

Eckerd

Weesin' ma Greetin'... Members of the Afro-American Society gather to meet, talk, and socialize with friends.

Shall we dance? A group of students learns to Salsa dance. Lessons were offered for a small fee through Los Latinos con Sabor club.

Remember when... Eckerd alumni gather for the annual Alumini Dinner to reminisce about their college days.

A man, a galion,
and his crew...
Comedian Craig Carmean

Midnight Madness '01

Let the madness begin The crowd eagerly awaits the start of the Eckerd College tradition known as midnight madness. Both the men's and women's basketball teams got the opportunity to strut their stuff for the crowd. There were also plenty of raffles, with the grand prize being a new car for a night.

Huddle Up! The women's basketball team gets ready to show off their skills for the crowd.

They have the beat After many weeks of practicing, the Eckerd dance team performs their routine before the start of midnight madness.

Pumping up the crowd The Eckerd cheerleading team gets the crowd psych'd for the events to come during the night.

True dedication Some avid fans of one of the basketball players show their support with homemade t-shirts.

Kicking off the Midnight Madness The band Olivecarpet gets the crowd excited for the start of Midnight Madness. They kicked off the night with a performance outside the gym

KIDS ON KAMPUS!

Getting a little closer to nature...

Two kids have a close encounter with a snake during "Kids on Kampus". The day was sponsored by Campus Ministries and featured games, food, prizes, and a reptilian petting zoo, courtesy of the Herpetology Club. Children from the St. Pete area were brought in to spend a day having fun.

I Want one too! Kids gather in a line and eagerly await a balloon animal or hat from Skip the clown. All the kids were seen proudly wearing their hats and carrying their animals for the rest of the day.

UHHHH...Should I
be afraid? One brave boy lets a snake crawl up his arm while another looks on with fear and excitement.

peek-a-boo! One of the features of the Herpetology Club's exhibit, a bearded dragon lizard, investigates the camera. Fierce as it looks though, it was actually quite friendly with everyone. This was one of the most popular attractions of the day.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS... Two kids check out a turtle. It goes like this... Jessica Kulick leads the kids and their parents in the cake walk game. I hope this won't bite me! A little boy gets a really close look at one of the snakes.

what do I WIN?! Julie Legg was the prize lady! She helped the kids pick out their prize from the many choices found at the prize table. One of the featured events was a scavenger hunt. The prizes ranged from books to jump ropes to pencils!

Jump! Jump! Jump! A group of kids start hopping as fast as they can in the sack race, another game planned for "Kids on Kampus". The winners were given coupons that were cashed in at the end of the day for their choice of a prize.

OFFERINGS TO THE GREAT PUMPKIN Well, maybe children of the Great Pumpkin. A few days before Halloween, students were provided with the opportunity to carve their own pumpkins for free. Many took advantage of this, putting the free carving kits and stencils into use. Others free-handed their own designs. A contest was held for the best carved pumpkin.

READY TO TRICK-OR-TREAT Shelley Kobus, Corry Wilkinson, and Ashley Gould stop to smile in their Halloween costumes. Many students chose to get dressed up to attend the Halloween Dance, lead kids around the campus, or just go trick-or-treating themselves.

IN THE SPIRIT OF HALLOWEEN Mike Hinds and Adam Farnsworth pose for a picture in one of the more clever costumes on Halloween. The "pack" was seen wandering the campus for the day, to the amusement of many. A few other students also chose to spend the day in costume, but this was by far one of the most elaborate.

HALLOWEEN

IT'S A BIRD. IT'S A PLANE. IT'S A SMURF?

Smurfette, to be more precise. A few creative students came to the Halloween Party decked out in blue body paint, taking everyone back to the days of Smurf cartoons. Many of the Eckerd Students were excited to get the chance to get off campus and to be goofy! It was a fun and hilarious way to release stress.

ALL DRESSED UP AND READY TO GO Michelle Davis, Eric Veitch, and Kris Bombard show off their costumes before heading off to the Halloween Party for a "spooktacular" night. Many of the students enjoyed the time they were able to spend with their friends for a night stress-free!

NOVEMBER

Reb, now that's an interesting move!
Bridget Thornton and Annie Kane watch everyone dance at Synthesia, while Eric Veitch shows off his dancing skills for the camera.

Show us what you've got! See ya!
Tracey Toufali and Julie Lockard dance the night away at Synthesia, the first ever International Student Association (ISA) club-style dance.

Cele! Members of Los Latinos Con Sabor wait in anticipation to serve their delicious Latin food. This new club was started this year to spread cultural awareness on campus.

Rock On! Big Sky performs in Slater's Woods as part of Palmetto's Thursdays at the Caf. It looks like Lindsey Kraatz and Laura Scherf are enjoying themselves.

Waesive, if you please... The Eckerd College Chamber Orchestra, though small, has a variety of instruments in its midst and brought out the full depth of the music.

A Variety of Interests...

hit that note! The Eckerd College wind ensemble, conducted by David Irwin, performed a multitude of pieces, including "Americans we....," "Sundance," and "Blessed Are They." Even though the group is small they remain dedicated to their music.

Coffee house! The Women's Resource Center sponsored a coffee house on the Fox Hall patio. There was music, food, tarot readings, and henna tattoos (as seen at left). It also provided a place to mingle and to gain support of the students on issues of the center, in the form of a petition.

Significant Contributions...

Quest For Meaning

Our house in the middle of our street... Brian Schilling represents the Habitat for Humanity group, which used donated supplies to build houses for the homeless in St. Pete.

Running for a cause... Tim Edmiston, Justin Loop, Bob Watson, Dan Cooper, and Lee Apperson ran 5K to raise money for handicapped kids and Leah's Dream Foundation. They also sold t-shirts to support the cause.

Ask not what your community can do for you, but what you can do for your community... Students, faculty, and staff gather at the Festival of Hope to learn about the different service projects that the seniors participated in this year.

sendin' a helpin' hand... Theresia Buchholz and Corry Wilkinson enlighten people about QFM. They were part of the festival coordination group. They planned, organized, and set up the entire event.

lift @t h@pe... Sladjana Mijatovic, Rachel Parks, Jen Kingsley, Brendan Philip, Derek Olsen, and Kenil Vora worked with the Center Against Spousal Abuse (CASA) organization to help women from abusive relationships get back on their feet.

ain't nothin' but a bound d@... Ann Whiko, Sarah Yarborough, and Charlotte Mace play with some of the animals that they tried so hard to find homes for in their volunteer work with SPCA.

It's fun to stay at the YMCA... Kris Olds, Deane Gardner, Deecembra Diamond, Anna Engholm, Jessica Flanigin, and Kristin Sundberg volunteered their time at the YMCA, creating programs that helped build a healthy spirit, body, and mind using Christian principles.

Did you have fun at the Benefit Ball knowing that you were helping a good cause?

"Yes, I had a great time. It was a good way to help, even if only in a small way."

Meredith Oppegard

"Yes, I thought it was good to combine having a good time with supporting a cause."

Jill Braly

"Yeah. The fact that it was organized by the students and at the Vinoy was great."

Arjun Mallik

"The ball was a great time and it was even better knowing we were helping the survivors."

Andre Mittag

The Benefit Ball was a service project for Quest For Meaning, put on by six seniors. The purpose was to raise money for the Twin Towers Fund, which was set up in New York City by former mayor Rudolph Giuliani to help the victims and their families in the tragedies of September 11th. These include the NYPD, Emergency Medical Services, NYC Fire Department, Port Authority of New York, and workers of the World Trade Center among others.

New York, New York! The Twin Tower Memorial was created by the QFM group and was on display for all to see at the Ball.

Say, "cheese" Adam Griffith and Anne Davis take a break from selling tickets and collecting donations to smile for the camera. The Benefit Ball was able to raise $5,000 for the Twin Towers Fund in New York.

Dressed to impress while making a difference! Eckerd College dances the night away in an attempt to help the people of New York. And help they did: about 300 people, students, faculty, staff, and ASPEC members, attended the dance at the Vinoy. Looks like they had a great time dancing until they were kicked out of the ballroom.

Changing Lives...

Attack on America Benefit Ball

It's the next Rockettes! Craig Albernaz, Brian Coughlin, Brandon Soule, and Damian Michalak close the ball by dancing to the last song, Frank Sinatra's "New York, New York," up on stage. Students enjoyed the fact that the dance had two different rooms for their use. The ballroom was for dancing, while the food and drinks were served in the foyer.

Changing Appearances...

The Times Festival of Reading

Look out Mickey, here we come!

Anna the Ballerina (Amy Johnson), Biscuit the Dog (Amanda Howey), and Madeline (Shannon Nulph) pose for a picture before heading out to lead the character parade around Children's Story Land. All the children loved the characters, but Amy, Amanda, and Shannon don't ever want to be characters at Disney because the heat was awful.

Once upon a time...

"The Story Lady" interacts with the kids during her story time. She had a few volunteers from the audience come up on stage and help her act out the story.

The ninth annual Times Festival of Reading took place on the Eckerd College campus on the weekend of November 10th and 11th. Roughly 15,000 people came to the festival to buy books, meet authors and distinguished speakers, create arts and crafts, and participate in many other activities. Children were able to listen and participate in story time with "The Story Lady" and parade around "Storybook Land" with various storybook characters. If you looked beyond the costumes, you just might have seen some Eckerd students there!

Scissors and glue I'm here to help!

Kristina White and Jeanne Roney of the Junior League of St. Petersburg help children with creative projects at the Times Festival of Reading.

Volunteers Melanie Brady and Garvin Sealy man one of the information booths and offer help to Shannon Coutinho. Tables similar to these were set up all around the fair.

Tradition is born Homecoming week made for some great entertainment and bonding among the Eckerd community. Some of the favorite events of Homecoming week were the basketball games and Prom-a-Not.

Each dorm was allotted a wall to paint and had a weekend to paint it in. There were many different designed walls ranging from Alice in Wonderland to St. Pete Beach and from the Galapagos Islands to Bob Marley. The creative effort of the students clearly showed, leaving the judges with the hard task of choosing only three winners.

A New Beginning...

Inauguration of President Eastman

March 2, 2002

The inauguration of Donald Eastman III as president of Eckerd College took place on March 2, 2002, at First Presbyterian Church of St. Petersburg. Many colleges and universities came to show their support for our new president. The celebration began on Friday with a luncheon in Hough Quad which students, staff, faculty and ASPEC members attended. Many gifts were presented to the Eastmans to celebrate this special day, including a pink flamingo lawn ornament from Dean Annarelli and a pool stick presented by Pat O'Flaherty on behalf of the student body. The celebrating continued at a Banquet held at the Don CeSar. Board of Trustee members, friends, family, and a few students attended. President Eastman was presented with awards by both the Mayor of St. Petersburg, Rick Baker, as well as a representative from the government. After the actual ceremony there was a reception at the Vinoy Hotel, where the president greeted his guests.

Brandon Owen points out the stage, where the Volleyball team was being auctioned, to Andy Cameron and Shawn Manafort.

Line up! Most of Eckerd came out to Nu for the free food and drinks that was served. The college even bought beer for those who were eligible to drink it.

Going, going, gone! Mike Pelletier and James Armstrong, members of the Volleyball team, were auctioned off to screaming girls standing on the ground below.

Chillin' and chattin'... Eckerd students gather along one of the corners at Nu to just hang out and talk. The balconies at Nu were the place to be to check out the happenings below and to catch up with friends.

I'll run thee through with my sword!

Milwaukee Man runs at the camera in his beer box getup. He wasn't the only one having fun. Nu Mardi Gras brought a good number of students out of their rooms to socialize.

Let's start the bidding at $10... do I hear $10?

Emcee for the night, Ricky Zager, had a good time auctioning off some of Eckerd's best sports players to raise money for the sports teams.

Spike! Nightspiker beach volleyball was a big hit later in the night. Students played volleyball by the purple glow of black lights, while the ball and nets glowed fluorescent colors.

April 19th, 3-8pm

Cheese! Ingrid, Francine, Vanessa, and Vanessa, the representatives of Brazil, all pose for the camera. Some of these girls did a dance native to their homeland.

O O O O . . . A H H H H . . .

The crowd gathers around the stage to watch all the amazing performances by students from the different cultures. There were so many talented groups that it was hard to pick a favorite. The whole afternoon was filled with a lot of different food, languages, history, clothes dances, and much enjoyment. Everyone left Hough Quad feeling as if they had just visited the various countries that were represented.

Let's party!

The last group to perform, Trinidad and Tobago, dressed up in authentic costumes and had a dance party on the stage for all to join. It was a great way to end the afternoon.

Look out, it's the camera!!

Looks as if some of the Turkish group wasn't ready for their picture. Fevzi, Deniz, Emrah, Verda, Ali, Enre, Belitsis, Tamer, and Murat showed off goods from their country.

It's easy, just do this...

Prathna, Arjun, Pooja, Sumit, Sulekha, and Maryanne perform a native Indian dance. All the beautiful costumes were authentic. This group was one of the major crowd pleasers of the festival. Between the dancing, the costumes, and the music, community members really felt like as if they were visiting India.

It's so hot!

Let's swing!

Clare, Chris, Meridith, and Lindsay show off their swing-dancing ability.

It's the cow guys!

The highlight of the show was the Dutch group of Martin and Ward singing in their cow costumes. They wore those costumes all day.

It's a crane!

A Japanese student displays his talent of making origami. This, along with great food, captured the attention of all who came to experience the Festival of Cultures.

Festival of Cultures

Bang those bongos! These drums, part of the African display, were just a few of the amazing cultural aspects of the Festival.

It's a Luau! Even an authentic Hawaiian hula dance was performed at the festival. During their performance they used handmade shakers to add to the Hawaiian beat.

Is this thing on? The hostess of the festival, Juana, announces the next group to come and take the stage.

WAY

YEAH YEAH YEAH!!

Rowdy students cheer on the actors at the Bullshit Ballet. The ballet was welcomed back with great enthusiasm and was one of the most popular events that happened on campus all year!

DANCE THE NIGHT AWAY

The hotel was pink, the dance floor was huge, and the food was amazing. The 2002 Spring Ball held at the Don CeSar was a big success and a lot of fun.

SPOTLIGHT!

President Eastman gives the Robert A. Staub Distinguished Teacher Award to Dr. Guy Bradley at the 2002 commencement ceremony held at Tropicana Field.

STUDY STUDY STUDY!!

It's finals time again and everyone is cramming in the library. The library made a good study spot where students could work in groups and work alone in quiet.

WE'VE MADE IT! Vicki Grafton looks out into the sea of her fellow classmates, with much happiness and a hint of sadness as she says her final goodbyes to the college life and gets ready to go out into the real world.

Graduation

Saturday, May 18, 2002

Presenting the class of 2002 Happy, smiling faces lit up Tropicana Field as the graduates processed in. Many families, friends, faculty, and staff were in attendance at the large arena making this graduation one to remember.

It's official! This graduate receives her diploma from President Eastman with a big grin on her face!

Inspiring Words

Matt Chambers, the PEL student speaker addresses the crowd.

It's such an honor Judge Susan Russ Walker '77 receives the Honorary Degree from President Eastman and Dean Chapin.

"Time to sail away. Thanks, for everything" Sally Holt presents President Eastman with a hug and the class gift - a model ship.

One last group shot With teary eyes and uncertain looks, the graduates stand together for the last time before processing out of Tropicana Field and into the world. Congratulations, class of 2002!!

WHAT DOES IT TAKE??

T E A M W O R K !!

IT'S ALL ABOUT THE FANS... Fans of all ages come out to support the many sports teams of Eckerd College. The great enthusiasm the crowds provide the players with lots of support and encouragement, which helps their performance.

Some players are new. Some players are old. Some have been in the game for years. Others are trying to still perfect their game. No matter who they are or where they come from, they now become part of the whole. There is no longer big "I" and little "you." What one brings to the game is different from the other. From the beginning of the season to the end, from the ups, to the downs, from the wins to the loses, the players may change, but the game will always be the same.

Sophomore, Andreas Wollny battles five defenders as he tries to maneuver the ball down the field for the Tritons.

Captain Frank Bergren awaits with the captain of the other team and the officials to see the results of the coin toss.

Iarecos Iachado, junior midfielder, throws the ball back onto the field after it was knocked out by the opposing defender.

Johan Alekic waits with anticipation for a shot at the ball. The ardent for victory can be seen by the look of determination on his face.

Freshman Defender Andy Dawson takes the ball down field with two teammates looking on.

Sophomore, Mike Clayton, runs down the line of players slapping hands with everyone as a pregame warm-up tradition. Eckerd teams are known for their encouraging and welcoming nature.

Nice Season Guys!

Good Season Girls!!!

Kristen Brantley goes after the ball that was punted into play. The look of determination on her face says that she is going to get the ball and get a goal.

Cady Dolan, in control of the ball, gets ready to pass to one of her teammates.

Sophomore, Forward, Johanna Wilborg and Junior, Midfielder, Cady Dolan watch as Dawn Delo fights for the ball. Looks as if she could score at any time.

Freshman, Stephanie Langton, Senior Robyn Steinweg, and Sophomore Johanna Wilborg run back to center feild as they wait for the other team's goalie to throw the ball back into play so that they can continue to play their hardest.

Batter up! Freshman infielder, Chelsey Polgar, #5, steps up to the plate and waits for the perfect pitch.

Swing Batta Batta... And that perfect pitch she got. With Chelsey's powerful swing and good stance, she could knock that ball anywhere she wanted.

Safe! #10 Junior infielder, Kelly Jackson, makes it safely to first. Her attempt to steal second didn't go quite as planned, however her dive back to first kept her safe. Her great base running, stealing, and sliding, helped the Tritons with their victories.

And the wind up, and the pitch

Freshman pitcher, Kristina Lemon, one of the Tritons' two pitchers, winds up in her attempt to strike out the other team.

To Give a Child a Dream

You cannot practice for her every day:

The knowledge that you give her will not stream

On her young mind in one bright, blinding ray,

But you can plant a dream.

Ah, you can plant a dream in her young heart,

A dream of excellence whose light will gleam

Upon her pathway as the years depart,

Your words can plant a dream.

To sow a dream and see it spread and grow,

To light a lamp and watch its brightness gleam,

Here is a gift that is divine I know . . .

To give a child a dream.

WARNING:

These are the very crazy people who have worked extremely long hours to produce this book. Due to lack of sleep, deprevation of food, and an overload of stress, it is in your best interest not to inquire or complain about the work of art you are now perusing to these particular individuals. Please enjoy all that you read and see and have a great day!

God Bless the USA! A student hangs the American flag proudly in his window. Many students, and others across the world, took the time to show their support and love for America.

Great Job! Dean Annarelli, Todd Meinors the director of Eckerd Dining Services, Brian Redar, and Fred Sabota the acting director of Campus Activities congratulate each other on a job well done. Together as a community we were able to transform the Lindsey Hall Grill into our new and improved student center!

Graduation Day! Greg Kokemuller walks into Tropicana Field for the graduation ceremony he has been dreaming about for four years.

As we bring this academic year to a close, we accept that we are not the persons we were when we began this journey of change. As a country we struggled to find our comfort, but most definitely found our identity. As a student body we said goodbye to many familiar faces, and almost immediately welcomed a whole host of new amazing people that would help keep Eckerd the unique place that it is, while working to alter its state for the better. We have changed. The world has changed. Within and around each of us a metamorphosis has occurred.

Bringing in the year 2001 with Volume VII of the Hullabaloo, this book was produced by the 01-02 Hullabaloo staff. The 2002 Hullabaloo was created by a student staff and printed by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. The 144 pages were submitted on disk using Macintosh versions of Adobe PageMaker 6.5, Adobe PageMaker 7.0, Adobe PhotoShop 4.0, and Microsoft Word 98. Steve Ferguson served as publishing representative and Robert Porter as account executive. The theme, Metamorphosis, was developed by Editor-in-chief, Andrew Richardson, and Office Manager, Amanda Howey, with the support of the entire staff. The opening and closing sections, along with the section dividers, were designed by the respective section or monthly editor. The sections were individually designed by Michelle Davis, Nicole Coppinger, Bridget Thornton, and Tonya Womack. The pages within the Clubs and Activities section were offered to every club and organization associated with the Eckerd College Organization of Students free of charge. Unless otherwise noted, all photographs were taken by the Hullabaloo or Triton staff. Portraits in the Album section were taken by Bryn-Alan Photography Company of St. Petersburg. Group photos throughout the book were taken by the staff or provided by the group. All photographs in the book were developed by Eckerd, or was taken with a digital Nikon CoolPix 995 camera. Conceptualized by Amanda Howey, Amy Johnson, and Tara Sands, and designed by Steve Taylor, the cover was created using Adobe PageMaker 6.5. The main type style found in the book is Times and is used for all of the captions. The lead-ins and headline type styles were left to the discretion of each individual section or monthly editor, and included Ransom, Sand, Gilligans Island, Treefrog, Eckmann, Caslon Open Face T, Plantin Oup Italic, Gadget, Trebuchet MS, Moonbeam, Comic Sans MS, Charcoal, Hobby Headline, Textile, Stinger, Monaco, Harrington, Impact, Graffiti, Jurassic, Opus T-Roman, Bermuda LP, Squiggle, Klang MT, ChauncySnowman, Arial, Lucida Handwriting, Hobo, Myriad Tilt, BriemScript, Zapf Chancery, Apple Chancery, and Lucida Blackletter. Editorial content does not necessarily reflect the views of the college or the Eckerd College Organization of Students. The editor-in-chief is not responsible for any inaccurate information presented within. The Hullabaloo is distributed on campus in the fall of each year to all students who purchased a book. Prices ranged from $40-$45, with 400 books ordered. The Hullabaloo office is located in Brown Hall, room 121. The staff can be contacted at 4200 54th Avenue South, St. Petersburg, FL 33711; phone 727/864-8924; fax 727/864-8588; yearbook@eckerd.edu.
